Excerpt from Florence, Lauderdale County and North Alabama This Pamphlet is prepared to facilitate our correspondence and to answer in part, thousands of letters from nearly every State and Territory in the Union. We have answered various questions fairly and as fully as space will permit and have confined ourselves to what we know to be facts, leaving fiction and exaggeration to those who live in localities where it is necessary. It is not published in the interest of, nor paid for by any land or other syndicate, but as a matter of business for ourselves, and to furnish reliable information to thousands of home-seekers that desire to secure homes in a healthful, congenial climate and rich agricultural and mineral country, where land is plentiful and cheap and only waits the hand of the husbandman to make it blossom like the rose. In the midst of the richest section of the fertile Tennessee valley, at an elevation far above the miasma of the valley, lies the beautiful city of Florence, with its schools and churches, its refined and intelligent people, its homes surrounded by the shrubs and flowers of this southern clime, its smooth drives and shady walks, its abundance of pure water bubbling forth in its cooling freshness from its bosom, and surrounded by its wild, varied and picturesque scenery, inviting the mechanic and tradesman, the man of business and the man of leisure, to come and enjoy what Nature has so lavishly given her children. It seems wrong that thousands of fertile acres should lie here idle and thousands of mothers and babes suffer for the sustenance that strong, willing hands could produce. So many...
