Excerpt: . chapter xvii Suggestions For Courses Of Study It does not seem possible to make a course of study, or courses of study, in manual arts and industries that would be equally valuable in different sections of the country, or even in different schools in the same locality. Certain lines of the work represented in the course should be related as intimately as possible to home and community life with which the pupils come in contact. As these conditions vary in different sections of the country, and in different communities, so must the course of study vary if the work is to be most interesting and educative. But, there are certain interests and activities that are more or less common in all communities. These will constitute a basis for a general suggestive outline which may be filled in and supplemented as necessary or desirable...
